Hello Andrew,

Good to meet with you and association members on Tuesday. Following-up on your request, provided are several resources on the options being evaluated for Portland Harbor. Please note EPA is still in evaluation stage and made no decisions yet.

We anticipate having a draft proposed plan (which will summarize the cleanup alternatives and propose a preferred course of action) available for community review and input in 2014. EPA will hold a series of city wide community information sessions on the draft proposed plan. There will also be a public comment period. EPA will review and consider public comments and then prepare a record of decision (ROD) – this is a public document that explains which cleanup alternatives the responsible parties will use to clean up Portland Harbor.

Provided are links for detailed info on options being evaluated for Portland Harbor. If this does not adequately answer your question please let me know.

EPA Feasibility study fact sheet, see page 2 for short description:

Additionally, see this site for confined disposal facility discussion. EPA held community meetings and there is a sheet with community questions and answers.

*EPA, Lower Willamette Group and the Willamette River Keeper have been invited to give presentations during an information session on Dec 16th , 7pm at the St. Johns Community Center. This session is being organized by the St. Johns Neighborhood. Options for Portland Harbor will be discussed. Ms. Emilie Sacks-Webb is organizing the meeting if you have questions.

Thanks,

Alanna Conley
